Endeavour gets on the cycle of life

Queensland cyclists will be seeing a lot more Endeavour Foundation jerseys on Queensland roads in coming years – perhaps even on you!

The distinctive 100% cool Merino wool jerseys, here being modelled by former international cyclist Hannah Banks, are available at a great price to any cyclist who'd like to help raise awareness of Endeavour and recognise the Foundation's growing relationship with Bicycle Queensland.

All funds raised through the jerseys will go to support people with a disability.

Endeavour CEO and avid cyclist David Barbagallo said cycling remained Australia's fastest growing individual and corporate sporting activity, and was a great way to get community exposure for Endeavour.

"Endeavour will be involved in a growing number of cycling events over the coming years," David said.

"We played a key role in the Bicycle Queensland 2009 ride through the Darling Downs, setting up seats, providing traffic control, marshalling cyclists and providing participants with a hearty hot breakfast.

"More than 100 cyclists, including myself and Chairman Grant Murdoch, donned Endeavour jerseys for the Wilson HTM Brisbane Gold Coast event."
